LONGWORTH IN HOUSE SPEECH FLAYS WILSON AND POLICIES

Ohio Congressman Defends Attitude of Republicans in Criticizing Wilson and His Usurpation of Power Equal to That of the Ancient Mikados of Japan.

WASHINGTON, MARCH 16—The storm over granting extraordinary powers to President Wilson at the expense of congress burst in wild fury in the house this afternoon.

In a bitter speech filled with denunciation of the president and his advisers, Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, son-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, compared President Wilson to the "mikados of ancient Japan" and insisted that if legislation sent to congress by the executive departments were passed as it stood "congress" would have abdicated all its powers to the president.

He defended the Republican party's criticism of the administration, asserting that it had forced reconstructions of the war machine of immeasurable benefit. He excoriated those who demanded that there be no criticism. The Republican party can stand on its record, he said, for the records show that in the main more members of that party have voted for measures in the house than Democrats.

"This is not the president's war," he shouted. "It is not the war of the Democratic party. It is the war of the American people. We stand behind the president not as an individual but because he for the time being represents the American people.

"If the president in his magnificent isolation from the common people—an isolation comparable only to that of the mikados of ancient Japan—is to be immune from any criticism of his acts then this war must be fought as no other war in history was ever fought."

Longworth assailed the growing practice of "asserting bills must be passed because they have been prepared by some executive department."

"Things have come to a pretty pass," he exclaimed, "if legislation to be simply a matter of executive order, if committees of this house are to be a mere registering machine for the will of the executive. For one, I believe the time has come definitely to impress upon the executive that we propose to do some thinking for ourselves, that we propose to scrutinize rigidly the proposals sent us from the other end of the avenue."

He roundly denounced the policy that led to the preparation of the Overman bill and the war finance corporation measures and the phrasing in which they were sent to congress. The ways and means committee of the house, he said, had dealt with the war finance measure as it should have been dealt with.

"We have built the legislative framework ourselves," he said. "We have hung a respectable sized money wrench on the safety valve and we have changed engineers."

Longworth called attention to the danger that it may be difficult if not impossible "to wrest from the executive when the war is over, the powers already granted to him but said, "it must be done at any cost if our free institutions are to be preserved."

WILSON SOON TO ANNOUNCE HIS VIEW ON JAPAN'S PLAN

Feels People Have Right to Know U. S. Attitude on Siberia's Invasion.

WON'T LET JAPAN EXPLOIT RUSSIANS

Both France and England Believe Japan Must Save Russia from Huns.

WASHINGTON, MARCH 16—Administration circles today let it be known that President Wilson will shortly issue a statement which will define the attitude of the United States towards Russia and towards the plans of the entente powers to have Japan send an expedition into Siberia.

No details were furnished as to when the announcement will be made or the form that it will take. It is known, however, that the president has felt for several weeks that the people of the United States were entitled to know the exact position which this government has taken towards the proposed Japanese-Chinese military expedition into Siberia.

He had planned to appear before congress and address a joint session of that body on the entire Russian problem and at that time to make it plain that the United States would insist at all times that the territorial integrity of Russia be maintained. Events that have transpired following the action of Germany in enforcing ruinous peace terms on Russia and Rumania have somewhat changed the situation.

Japs Can't Exploit Russia.

But the president still is determined, officials close to him assert, that there shall be no exploitation of defeated Russia for the benefit of any other nation.

It is believed that the action of the president will precede any action in Siberia by Japan. The debate in the British house of commons already has shown that Great Britain feels that Japan must intervene to save Russia from Germany. France is unalterably committed to such a plan.

Tokio has been in communication with London and Paris while there has been a general interchange of views between all of the nations affected on the general subject. The result is believed to be that President Wilson is now in position to break silence and to outline America's position and desires in the matter.

BIG CHANGE IN PLAN OF FOOD ADMR. PREDICTED

Senate Agr. Com. Favors Throwing Meatless Days Into the Discard.

FARMERS REFUSING TO FEED LIVESTOCK

Conservation Plans Has Simply Served to Fill the Refrigerating Plants.

WASHINGTON, MAR. 16.—Meatless days will go into the discard if recommendations of the senate agricultural committee bear weight. Investigation into the food question by the committee is expected to come to a close today. Recommendations will then be made to the senate and it is anticipated that these will include wide changes in the methods of the food administration.

Foremost in the restrictions of the food administration to be advised by the senate interstate committee is a discontinuance of the meatless days or at least a reduction in the amount of conservation of meat. This recommendation will be based on the testimony of numerous live stock producers to the effect that meatless days are not decreasing consumption to any appreciable degree and are endangering the supply of the future.

Mutton Supply Affected.

The committee has a large number of statistics showing that the mutton supply of this country has been especially affected by the meatless day order. It shows that exports of mutton and lamb are almost negligible and the conservation has decreased the demand to such a degree that the market has become very slow. As a consequence producers claim that the price has fallen to such a point that livestock men are ceasing to feed lamb and mutton and are turning to other products.

There is also evidence to the effect that conservation has filled the refrigerating plants and as a consequence live stock is being held on the farms which should be on the market. Farmers appearing before the committee declare that they are required to feed their cattle for long periods after they are ready for market and that this results in a loss on the net price which the live stock brings on the hoof.

Free Meat Markets.

Beef and pork products, the cattle dealers claim, are also suffering from low prices brought about by the wide conservation. They declare that these prices were not for the benefit of consumers but to work to the detriment of the producers.

"A free market for meats," is the remedy offered by all of those called to testify before the committee. As the result of this unanimity of opinion the committee tends to recommend to the senate that steps be taken to direct the food administration to lift the restrictions upon meat, at least until the market has been re-established and production is again going forward.

STATEMENT OF WILSON WILL EMPHASIZE HIS FAITH IN RUSS

No Change in the President's Attitude Toward the Proposed Japanese Military Expedition Into Siberia; Jap Must Renounce Ambition Toward Territorial Gain.

WASHINGTON, MAR. 16—President Wilson today is understood to be preparing a statement for the world at a large which will emphasize his announced policy of support and sympathy for the Russian people. It is believed the opportunity will be accepted to define the attitude of the United States toward the suggested plan of the entente powers to have Japan send an expedition into Siberia. The most definite statement obtainable concerning this policy was that there has not been the slightest change in the views of the United States as they were made known informally to Japan some days ago. This is regarded as advance assurance that the president will restate his unwillingness to assent to any plan of intervention which is unaccompanied by a statement of non-territorial ambitions on the part of Japan. The president has not permitted his closest advisors to know whether the message will be delivered thru Congress or be issued direct from the White House. As a matter of expediency the latter course may be adopted, it is thot, owing to the fact that the Sunday holiday will make it impossible for him to appear at the Capitol before Monday. Exchanges of views between the United States and Japan and with the other allies still was in progress at a late hour today, it was semi officially declared.

Secretary Lansing was back on the job in the state department today but had nothing to add to the news on the Russo-Japanese situation. He said that so far as he knew the promised protest by Holland against the Dutch ship seizure has not reached the department. The question was one which the department could not discuss, he said.

The department still was without official word of the action of the soviet congress. Unofficially, it had received full confirmation of the action taken. It also had not received a copy of the resolutions, which, it was reported, had been adopted in reply to President Wilson's message, in which it was reported a declaration that only world-wide socialism would end warfare, was included.

It was considered unlikely that there would be any intimation of the policy of the United States until President Wilson's official statement is issued. It is understood that the president's proposed announcement is completed and that it was outlined to the cabinet yesterday. Just when it will be made public is a closely guarded secret, as is the fact whether it will take the form of an address to congress or a statement thru the committee on public information. Many officials seemed to believe that it would be the latter method that will be used.

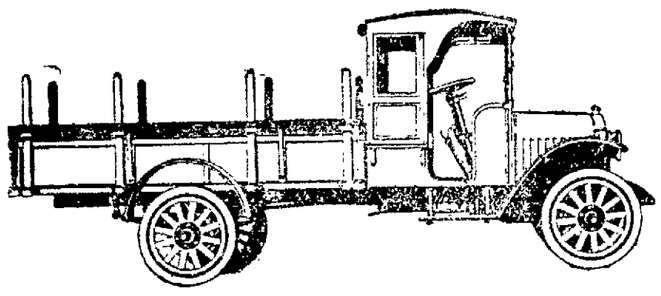
75% of all hauling can be done by a Maxwell Truck



MAXWELL TRUCK

There are now more than 6600 Maxwell trucks in use. And we cannot find a single business that the Maxwell isn't adapted to.

Up to this time we have listed over 300 kinds of businesses in which Maxwell trucks are employed.

They will do everything a 5-ton truck will do except haul 5 tons at one load. 5-ton trucks aren't better. They're merely bigger.

Big trucks spend more gas hauling themselves than the Maxwell uses at peak load.

How well those Maxwells have done their work is shown by a service record of 99.6% perfect—the greatest record ever made by a motor-driven vehicle.

$400 less than any other truck of similar capacity in the world.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no loss of time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 221 D Marshland Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least save themselves of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts In Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

The "Old Timer" Fires Just Once

By Henry G. Wales, I.N.S. Cor. WITH AMPRICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, MAR. 16.—A certain Sergeant, an old timer, who formerly was in the navy has long been annoyed by a certain German sniper. He finally decided to "get" him.

Creeping out onto No Man's Land during the night he located the German in a tree. He waited until daylight and then drew a bead on the German. He fired just once and the German toppled out of the tree.

"He didn't need the shot to kill him," the sergeant said after he had crept back to his own lines. "The fall alone would have done it."

Are You Dead Or Alive?

In last Friday's issue of this paper there appeared an advertisement something like this, (Name of a certain theatre) where all big attractions show.

The Pastime Theatre wishes to prove to you that the above is untrue.

The management of the Pastime Theatre has established a policy on larger scale than any thing ever attempted in Coshocton.

Each week there will be shown at the Pastime one big attraction. They will all be real big pictures from six to twelve reels in length.

Below is listed the names of a few of the really big attractions.

"WITHIN THE LAW," with Alice Joyce and Harry Morey in 9 reels.

"THE HEART OF A LION," With William Farnum in 8 reels.

"GOD'S COUNTRY AND THE WOMAN," with Nell Shipman in 8 reels.

"A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS," with Annette Kellerman in 10 reels.

"WOMANHOOD, THE GLORY OF A NATION," with Alice Joyce in 7 reels.

"THE FORBIDDEN PATH," with Theda Bara in 7 reels.

"THE GIRL PHILIPPA," with Anita Stewart in 8 reels.

"DUBARRY," with Theda Bara in 7 reels.

"BECAUSE OF THE WOMAN," with Belle Bennett in 7 reels.

"I LOVE YOU," with Alma Rubens in 7 reels.

Many more big attractions will be announced in the near future. To The man who wrote that advertisement Friday night we wish to say, "If You Think You Are The Only Man In the Theatre Business In This Town You Are Mistaken." You should follow by what Daniel Webster's father said, "Improve your opportunities. LEARN! LEARN! LEARN. The man that is talking to you now is one that has had thirteen years experience and knows the film game, but always pretends not to know. Just about all Diogenes or Dimostenes.

Come to the Pastime either next Wednesday or Thursday and see "WITHING THE LAW," featuring Alice Joyce and Harry T. Morey in that big stage success which ran on Broadway sixteen months. We don't ask The Public by over charging for our big attraction. Our prices 10c and 20c.

NOT MEDICINE NOT SURGERY

The Direct System—Physiological Therapeutics

We have taken the "kernel" from the following systems: Chiropractic, Neuro-Magnetics and Mechano-Therapy

We stand for broadness of thought and liberty to apply whatever means appeal to our judgment as being the right one, under the various and numerous conditions met with in abnormal functions of the body, no matter if we should be dubbed "Mixers" by narrow bigots and fanatical enthusiasts.

No one separate system is ALL in itself, any more than one branch of an army is sufficient to the exclusion of the others. As it is true that "the body hath many members, yet it is but one body" so it is true that the art of healing has many phrases, and the liberal, broad-minded operator will avail himself of all and every means which Nature, The Great and Only Healer, provides for humanity.

Physiological Therapeutics

It is a system of drugless and knifeless treatment, by which the human machine is Properly Adjusted. Not whipped up by stimulants nor deadened by pain killers. Not a day passes but I am gratified by seeing results follow my adjustments.

The Ohio War Board Says Today

The time limit for soldiers taking war risk insurance has been extended to April 12th.

Dependents or relatives of soldiers and sailors should write to them at once urging them to take advantage of the government insurance if they have not already done so.

There is no red tape about this insurance. Assistance of lawyers or claim agents is not needed. The government has made it easy for beneficiaries or principals to collect their claims.

The soldiers themselves must apply for the insurance or if unable, may cable or telegraph their relatives to make application for them and such messages will be accepted as personal application by the War Risk Insurance Bureau of Washington, D. C.

A few dollars paid per month gives service men $10,000 insurance. Red Cross army nurses may also take out this insurance.

The government's automatic insurance has been discontinued and no man is now insured unless he makes application.

THE INCOME TAX

Property Purchased, Sold, Inherited, Etc.

How you determine what amount of gain, or profit, derived from a sale of property is returnable for income-tax purposes—

If you acquired the property sold prior to March 1, 1913, you should take its fair market price or value as of that date, add thereto all amounts subsequently expended in making permanent improvements, then deduct the aggregate of all claims for depreciation in value of property claimed as deductions on previous returns, and the difference between the result thus obtained and the selling price is the amount to be reported under "Gross income."

If you purchased the property on or after March 1, 1913 the difference between its cost, plus all amounts subsequently expended for permanent improvements, less depreciation previously claimed, and its selling price, is to be returned.

If the property came to you on or after March 1, 1913, as an inheritance, the difference between the appraised value placed upon it at that time, plus all amounts subsequently expended for permanent improvements, less depreciation previously claimed, and its selling price, is to be returned.

THE FAITH THAT SAVES

In one of his public addresses Wendell Phillips, perhaps the greatest orator of his time, declared that churches were the great apologists for every vested wrong.

That statement may have been true in the day it was uttered, but it is doubtful if it can be wholly substantiated today. Wendell Phillips was the inveterate foe of human slavery and the record of the American church on the slavery issue is better forgotten than remembered.

It will also be noted that Phillips said "churches," and not "the church." He perhaps had particular churches in mind, churches that were individually dominated by a few rich men who got the kind of religion they paid for—or quit paying.

There are churches of that stripe today, but happily they are growing less. We believe the church as a whole is less concerned with creeds and technical theology today than it was in Phillips' time. Certainly on the liquor question, on political corruption and social problems the church today is a far more healthy institution than it was when the nation rang with the fervid oratory of men like Sumner and Phillips.

But whatever opinion the individual may hold as to church and theology and creeds, the fact remains that Christianity, pure and undefiled, is the agency of revolution. The church may not be this, but Christianity, by its very name, always has been and always must be the agency of revolution.

Christ Himself is the most revolutionary character in history. We like to refer to Washington and Franklin and Paine and Otis and the other "Fathers of the American Revolution" as our ideals of revolutionists. But the Teacher of Nazareth was more revolutionary than they all.

In its purity the Christian religion teaches the supreme worth of the individual soul. And that individual may be rich or poor, high or low in social distinction; before the bar of the Church that Christ founded, there is absolute equality. He maintained in the face of bitter and powerful opposition that in the humblest peasant of Judea there was that which made him the equal of the highest dignitaries in the Jewish church or of the most powerful Roman governors and generals.

It was that simple doctrine, held to tenaciously thruout his brief ministry, that made him the most hated man of his time. That doctrine was loaded with dynamite to every institution that is reared on Special Privilege, whether in the days of the Caesars or in our own times when a plutocracy of wealth assumes the control of every civil and political function.

Churches under the Roman empire, or churches in our own twentieth century may make their peace with the world. A few leading spirits in the modern church may condone conditions which lift the few into positions of power and ease while strapping burdens too heavy for mortals to bear on the backs of the many, but even the sanction of the church does not give to such conditions the sanction of Christianity. The few who are powerful enough to force churches here and there into such compromising positions only fool themselves when they think by so doing they are receiving the approval of the Christian religion itself.

There is that in true Christianity which will save it, no matter what fate may befall the church. For back of creeds and systems of theology are the words of fire, the revolutionary teachings, the simple faith of the great Galilean before which social injustice and time-honored custom must inevitably fall.

The German Soldier : : BY WALT MASON

I'd hate to be a German, and fight for Kaiser Bill, unable to determine why I went forth to kill. The Frenchman and the Briton have causes fire and light, and when a foe they've smitten, they know the reason why. The Russian and the Roman, the Belgian and the Serb, shoot up the armored foeman autocracy to curb. For freedom men are fighting on Europe's blood drenched lands; the German, at this writing, for ancient error stands. The kaiser says, "Go, slaughter, go, butcher, till you die, make men's blood run like water, and do not ask me why. Go, vassals, serfs, and do my will my wrath on all my foes. I am the great Whatisit, and what I tell you goes. Don't ask me questions why you'll do as you are told. I'm the anointed Willie, who bids you go and fight." I am the sun in heaven, I am the moon and stars; to me also has been given the foot and frost of Mars. And when I bid you, wallow in blood up to your ears, my dictum you must follow!" Hoch, Deutschland und swei hiers!" And so, like dumb cattle, the Germans go to war, and wonder, as they battle, what they are fighting for.

Financial Letter

NEW YORK, MARCH 16.—That transactions in Stock Exchange securities should be confined to limited proportions does not appear remarkable if analysis is frankly attempted of the conditions under which they are being conducted. We are, for instance, at the threshold of a new war loan, larger in volume, it is understood, and more attractive in return than either of the offerings which have preceded it. At the same time we every day are approaching on the Western front the active resumption on a major scale of hostilities which with the arrival of spring, are so inevitable. It has heretofore been emphasized in these advices that the renewal of active fighting this year contains for us a much greater personal element. Our own men are for the first time to undertake a liberal share of the burden of the war. Every day the new arrivals of our troops in France will add to American responsibilities. It need not be said that these responsibilities will be shouldered manfully and successfully. But the inevitable toll of war must be faced frankly. From now on a much wider appreciation will at home here be entertained of the real cost of war. This is a factor in the financial situation which should be appraised at its face value as is the inexorable price of our participation in the War of Empires.

As to the ultimate solution of the tangle the week's developments contained little which seems to suggest that the end has approached appreciably nearer. No doubt the enemy, if it were possible for him to consolidate and perpetuate the fruits of the invasion of a demoralized Russia, would be more than willing to advance such terms for restitution of Belgian and French territory as to meet much more clearly the demand of our own country and of our associates in the war. The Germanizing of the great Russian empire, the control of its trade and of its huge resources—those which have been developed and those not—would provide an outlet for German expansion undoubtedly far beyond any hope entertained before the war began. But such a settlement of the war is not possible. At best it would mean merely a temporary truce with a determination of the military caste of Berlin, after once the Russian situation had been placed under control to resume and continue its plan of world conquest which has been so unmistakably displayed as the underlying object of the present war. President Wilson in his message to the Russian Soviet at Moscow has, however, intimated the America position on the Russian problem, which problem must be considered but a separate division of a single great question. The only possible basis for peace which can be considered is one which will mean a permanent peace predicated upon the overthrow of autocracy and the safeguarding of democratic ideas of freedom of thot and action. Unfortunately the recent successes of the enemy in Russia are calculated to delay such a result. German leaders now are reported to be willing to consider a peace on the basis of the status quo ante in the West and the status quo in the East. This impossible solution appears all there is contained in the more recent press reports of renewed peace feelers from Berlin.

It merely is axomatic that the longer the duration of the war the greater its cost and the greater the addition to our huge national debt which is so rapidly piling up. The money situation already has developed a degree of strain which calls for caution in Stock Exchange operations. At the moment the market is being called upon to depend almost entirely upon money accommodation afforded in the form of demand loans. Funs for fixed maturities are not available. The near approach of the time when preparations will become necessary for the new Liberty Loan, which will be issued April 6, suggests that there is slight probability of any fundamental improvement taking place in the general money situation during the progress of the loan. As in the past, financial interests of New York will without doubt come forward patriotically and shoulder more than their share of the loan. New York banking institutions can be depended upon, with the aid of the Federal Reserve Bank, to provide facilities for making the new bond offering a success. Secretary McAdoo has very frankly recognized the financial patriotism of New York, which has been displayed by large subscriptions to the Treasury certificates of indebtedness that are being issued in anticipation of subscriptions to the new loan. But, admittedly the underlying monetary situation cannot be expected to develop distinct ease during the period necessary for the accumulation of funds so urgently required by our Government. Thus market operations based too largely upon borrowed money should be avoided. This is a feature which does not apply so strongly to investments where full purchase funds are available.

From the general investment standpoint there appears no reason to change views recently expressed in these advices. On the one hand must be recognized the competition for the savings of investors which will accompany the offering next month of the new war bond issue. Undoubtedly the utmost pressure will be exerted to make the new offering an outstanding success. The bonds themselves will be attractive and will, in addition, have behind them the spur of patriotism to make effective demands upon the floating supply of funds available for investment. In addition is to be expected some degree of liquidation having for its purpose the release of funds already occupying fixed channels. But on the other hand conditions have recently arisen as a result of the tardiness of our officials at Washington which clear up a contingency which without such action barely could have failed to have culminated in enforced liquidation of securities in sufficient volume to produce most serious results. Railroad returns which have recently become available for the month of January, the first month of Governmental control of our transportation lines—convey rather convincing suggestions of what in such circumstances must have been faced in the case of railroad securities. Railroad traffic, it is true, has been of a volume far in excess of the railroads' capacity. But increases in the cost of labor of equipment of everything entering into the railroad industry have been so great, and such large deficits have been created in railroad revenues as to seriously threaten dividends as in not a few cases it has prevented as well. There does not appear as yet an adequate appreciation of what railroad control by the Government in fact means to holders of railroad securities. It would proved difficult to overstate its importance in lieu of becoming thoroly discouraged by mounting defaults, holders are today concerned chiefly with the condition, financial and physical, in which the Government will release their property. The Administration's Railroad Control bill has duly passed both Houses of Congress without amendment so far as its main purposes are concerned. All the systems of the country are now for all practical purposes consolidated. Earnings of individual systems are not important to the stockholders. If net revenues fall below the average for the three years immediately preceding our formal entrance as a war participant the Treasury will make up the deficiency. If, on the other hand, the three-year average is exceeded, then any surplus must go to the Treasury. This is quite fair, since the business formerly controlled by the individual lines has become subject to arbitrary routing by representatives of the Director General. But the plans of the Government contemplate placing the railroads of the country on such a plane that they will be able to handle traffic on a wartime basis. The Treasury is to lend its good offices to see that ample funds are provided for the purpose of enabling the railroads to make necessary improvements and extensions and to provide new equipment. This means that funds the absence of which has in recent years been such a handicap on railroad development will become available at rates based on Government credit. Hence there seems excellent reason to believe that when the management of the railroads is returned to the stockholders the properties then will be in a much improved condition.

The market still is in an attractive position for those who are desirous of entering into long range investments. The approach of the formal offering of the new war loan, if history is to repeat, is not unlikely to be accompanied by efforts to provide a favoring investment atmosphere to ensure it complete success.

HENRY CLEWS

SOVIETS LISTEN IN SILENCE

LONDON, MAR. 16. Silence marked the reading of President Wilson's message of sympathy to the Russian nation to the panrussian congress of Soviets despatches received here today from Petrograd said.

Immediately after the message was read, however, a resolution was adopted expressing appreciation. But it was addressed more to the toilers of America than to President Wilson. The resolution also expressed confidence that the time was not far distant when the workers would overthrow capitalism and by establishing a Socialist society insure the workers of the world a just and lasting peace.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so sweetly.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach ache or diarrhoea. Listen Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Stock Market

NEW YORK, N. Y. MAR. 16—Trading was dull at the opening of the stock market today with price changes narrow and generally to lower levels.

Canadian Pacific continued under pressure, dropping 2 points to 139 3-4 Erie first rose one point to 29 and Reading after opening 3-4 higher at 83 3-4 dropped to 83.

Bethlehem B. rose 1 point to 78 3-4 and Baldwin after advancing 1-2 to 79 1-8 quickly reacted to 78 1-4. Steel common after selling up to 91 5-8, dropped to 91 1-4. Marine preferred moved in the same manner, selling up to 98 3-8 and then reacting to 98.

Growing of Trouble.

Annoying troubles, noxious weeds that they are, must have the elements of ordinary life or they will fade away and die—a receptive soil in which to grow, the moisture of one's own tears as well as the tears of as many other good people as can be induced to cry, and the gentle sunlight of sympathetic attention.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

ROSCOE SCHOOL SHY EQUIPMENT, SAYS INSPECTOR

In order that the second grade charter of the Roscoe high school may be saved it is necessary for the community to raise a fund to purchase equipment and stock the shelves of the school library with acceptable books before the first of May when a state school inspector will visit the school and determine if the charter shall be held or revoked

When an incendiary fire destroyed the school building and all its contents on New Year's day, 1912 the village lost its right to a second grade school charter The state did not revoke the charter because of the circumstance, allowing the village the opportunity of replacing the destroyed equipment without lapse of standing

The replacement has not been completed, according to a member of the Roscoe school board, and now the state demands the standard of second grade schools be met or the charter surrendered.

Subscription papers for the purpose of raising money to purchase laboratory equipment are being circulated in the village and the citizens are responding freely, but books of history literature by standard authors, fiction and science are needed for the library shelves.

The appeal is sent out by the school board to Coshocton and Roscoe people who have such books and will donate them to the school to call C W Neptune or A C Kaser, both of Roscoe and by Citizens phone.

Been Out in the First Spring Sunshine?

All Wool

To find if a material is all wool—

Light a match to it. If it burns quickly without a brilliant flame and leaves a light gray, easily crunched ash, it is wool—

If it flares up into a great flame, there is cotton in the fabric.

There are other tests for the degree of "all-woolness" of materials—

And tests for the realness of other things and folks—

And a mighty good test is time!

Since 1883 The Ransom Store has proven itself all wool—every thread all wool—

And many, many yards wide!

Coats and Suits That Set a "Good Pace" For Spring
